

Stainless Steel Polishing and Cleaning

External Surfaces

Two Products are recommended, and each have their own usage applications:

(1) The absolute best for general polishing (when there is not significant residue on the tanks). Use Sprayway Stainless Steel Cleaner and Polish. Use of a "Flour Sack Cloth/Towel" for this product's application works the best. When using this product, you can use the wax on-wax off (circular application) method.

(2) Bar Keeper's Friend. Conversely, you should not apply this with a circular motion on external surface. Bar Keepers Soft Cleanser is much more aggressive than the Sprayway polish, and is best to use when you have some residue on the tanks, but you MUST apply only with strokes that go with the grain of the stainless. Otherwise, you will see all the swirls of your circular motion as it sort of scratches the surface of the steel. Go with the Grain ONLY with Bar Keeper's Soft Cleanser. The manufacturer recommends to apply their product with their Micro-Fiber Cloth.

Internal Surfaces

When cleaning the inside of the Kettle, other than your CIP practices, use Bar Keepers Friend Soft Cleanser and 3M Scotch-Brite Hand Pads. Red (7447) is the course, Green (7448) is medium, and White (7445) is softer.

In the unfortunate case of a dry fire in an indirect fire kettle, use the Barkeepers with the Red Hand Pad.
